Soaring Eagles

Multi-sensory Learning Academy

was developed to help learning disabled students, entering first through eighth grade, maintain their language arts and math skills while increasing their self-esteem. Students participate in small group, hands-on activities in math, written expression, organized games/movement, keyboarding, sign language, science, and art. The curriculum is adapted to meet the needs of students.

Math activities are presented using manipulatives as well as multi-sensory techniques. Topics covered range from basic number skills to pre-algebra.

Written Expression activities range from composing simple sentences to writing short stories.

Academic Language Therapy is available for an additional fee in a two-on-one setting with trained teachers. Reading, spelling and writing skills will be practiced at the student's level.

Keyboarding skills are developed and practiced using the Diana King Typing program and typing games.

Specially Trained Staff

All Soaring Eagle classes are taught using multi-sensory teaching techniques by trained staff.
